Making a difference in the world

Ernst & Young, corporate responsibility is part of what we do every day — for our people, for the companies we serve, and for our communities. It's through our daily work and community engagement that we have the opportunity to demonstrate the shared values that are the foundation for all that we do and are at the heart of our social responsibility.

We focus on areas that fit best with who we are and where we can create positive social change.

Our strategic focus on education and mentoring allows us to devote our resources to helping society maintain competitive standards in a global marketplace.

We use our knowledge and skills to support DRIVE AGAINST MALARIA by celebrating, supporting fundraising across the globe, we are helping to create opportunity through generating funds, stimulating companies to do the same, and make the foundation more vibrant. ■
